THIS BODY

This booklet was created for a project called 'limitations', the goal being to create a series of artworks with a self-imposed rule limiting yourself.

My rule was to only work with black, white and red; and to use these colors to depict the human body and my personal expression through it. Using my creativity to create compelling images despite the limitation and compose these into an interesting art book, the one you are viewing right now.

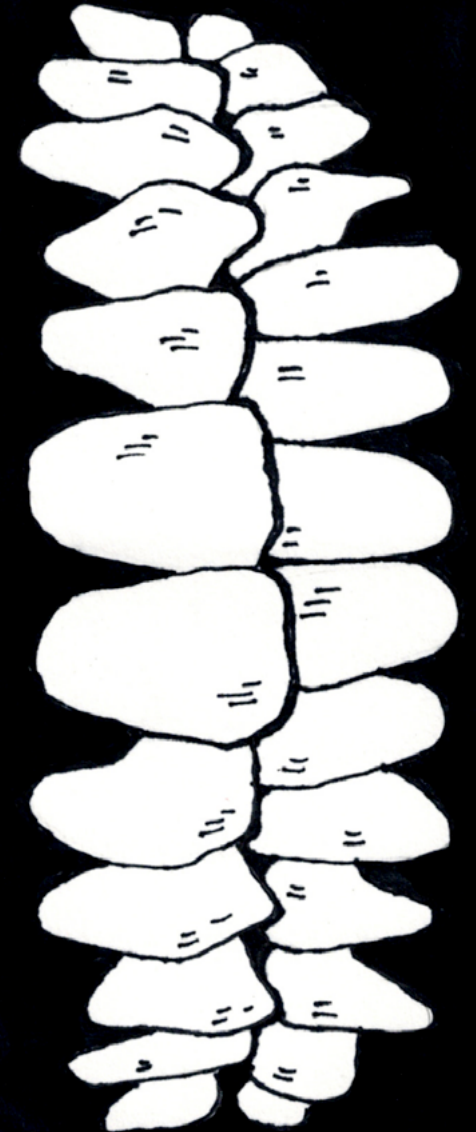

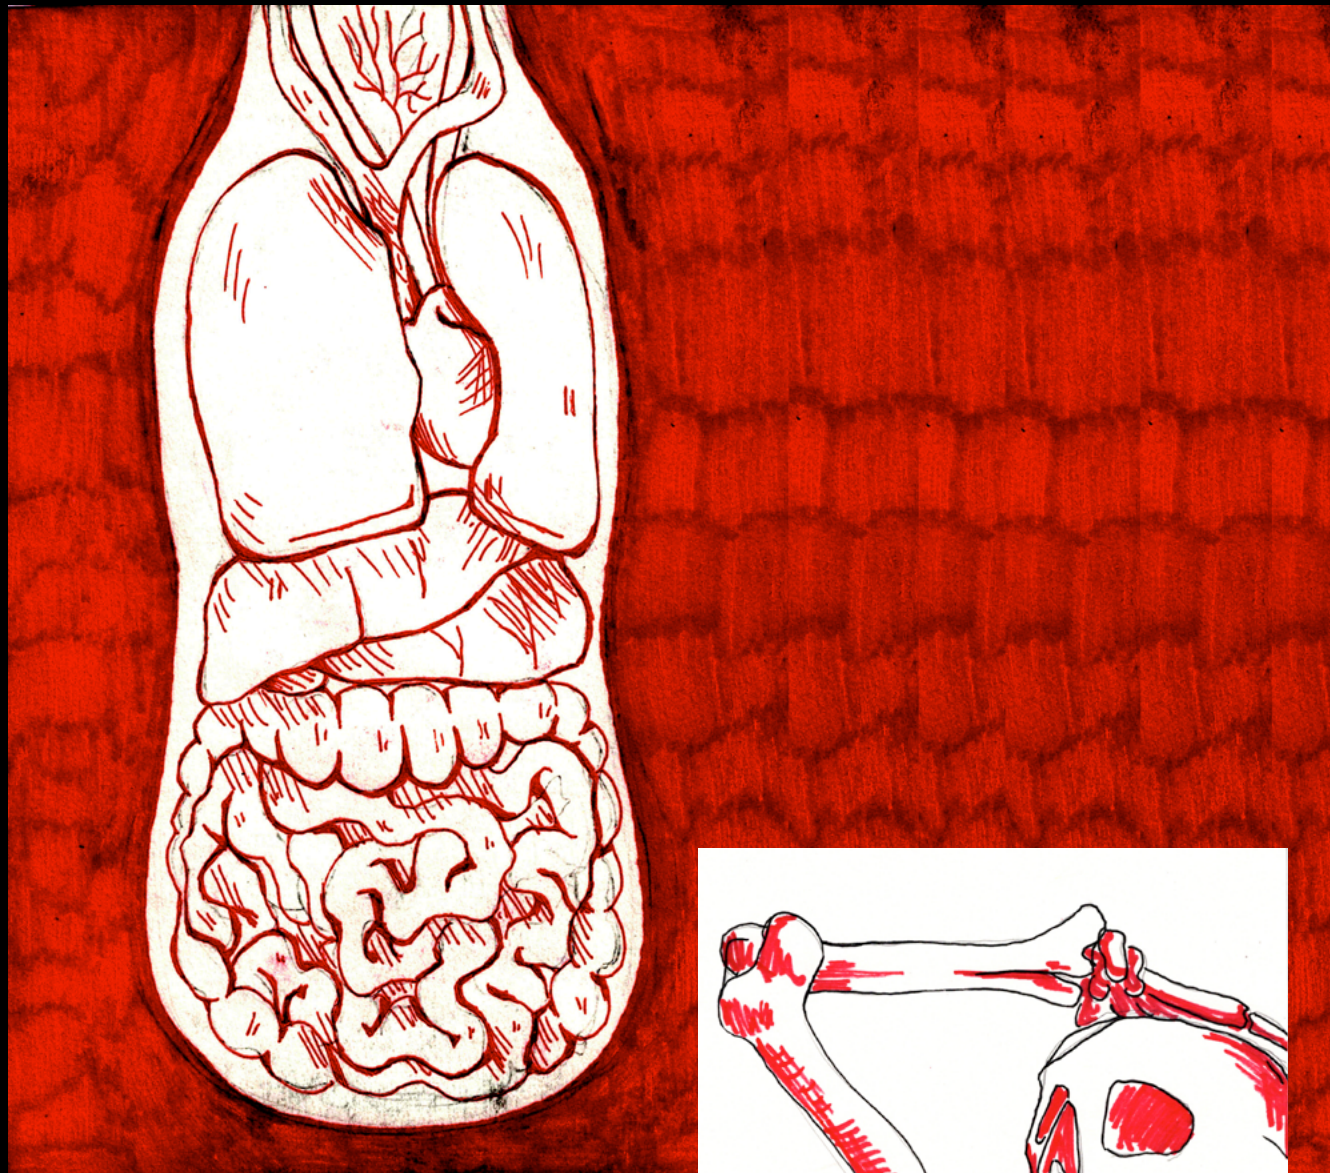

This will contain graphic imagery and disturbing depictions that might be uncomfortable to some viewers. Thank you for reading.
