

Using Vtubers to Promote a Struggling Donut Shop

A promotional booklet showing the beauty of local businesses and why you should patronize them

How I Recruited Vtubers to Help Save My Local Donut Shop

Earlier this year, to my great surprise, I discovered that I possessed a talent for hypnotism. After developing my skills on some of my more aggravating neighbors, I endeavored to push myself by "capturing" a few of my favorite virtual idols. After a surprisingly simple operation, I began a new life with them, with only a few minor privacy adjustments to my daily life.

During one of my morning breakfast runs, the owners of my beloved local donut joint bemoaned their recent lack of business. I decided that I could use my new companions to create an underground promotion for them, and set out to do just that. The following pages contain those efforts, put together over the course of a few months.

An anime-style illustration of two female characters in a bakery. The character on the left has long, light grey hair in pigtails and is standing. The character on the right has long, vibrant blue hair with a small heart-shaped hair tie and is sitting on a stack of donuts. Both characters are unclothed. The background shows a bakery interior with shelves of donuts and a warm, orange-toned lighting.

Unlike these two who have had one baking in their ovens for a few months.
