

DEJA VU

I opened my eyes and found myself face to face with the unknown, a long dark and silent hallway only illuminated by me. I prepared to move across the carpeted floor, the white walls had an indecipherable pattern design and were decorated with paintings that were very familiar, but that I had never really seen before. I walked for hours through those hallways, connected in such a way that it seemed like a maze. It didn't take me long to lose my composure, I was sure I heard noises coming from behind me until I finally found the exit, I could tell by the large door that said my name.
