HELLO, SUMMER LEARNER!

How to use this book

This book has 12 weeks of summer practice. Each week gives you five days of activities that take about 20 minutes a day. You'll do a bit of math, a short reading, some writing, a vocabulary warm-up, and a fun bonus puzzle. Finish a week, check off the weekly goals, and give yourself a high-five.

Do a little every day

Twenty minutes beats an hour once a week.
Make it a summer habit.

Use a pencil

It's okay to erase and try again — smart learners do that all the time.

Read the instructions

Each section has a small helper note. Give it a quick look first.

Celebrate progress

Track finished days on the weekly opener.
Ten days = one victory lap.

Bridge to 3rd

Leo puts 12 stones into 3 equal jars. How many stones in each jar? _____

Read Together

Leo's Jar

Leo's grandma kept a jar of smooth river stones on her porch. Each one was a different color, polished by years of water. She said she had picked them up, one by one, from the river near her old house. When Leo visited, she let him hold them. The stones were cool and heavy and felt like a pocket full of summer. They were precious to her.

1. What was inside the jar?

2. Where did Grandma find them?

3. Why do you think the stones were precious to Grandma? Use clues from the story.

Your Turn to Write

Write 2 full sentences. Start each with a capital and end with a period.

Prompt: Describe something you like to keep in a jar, a box, or a pocket.
