

OP TEXT: I've been looking to see if the path I've traced out was traced before by anyone else, I've found nothing. Despite the heaps upon heaps of connections, I have not even found glancing evidence that this is something that even a small minority of the board is aware of. If you feel so inclined, I offer you what I've found. You don't need to accept this as a fact, however, I tell you that when you consider the bizzare rrats that are constantly created on this board (what I now realize to be the force that blinds the majority of us), this will not at all be too bizarre. The Actual Meaning Behind, HoloX Secret Society:

If anything /vt/ is the victim of this large reaching occurrence, which may be esoterically orchestrated by adversarial entities or the natural result of a process that was destined to be concluded, concluding the fate of the souls of all man with it.

In order to actually fully grasp the true meaning of this, you need to realize the truth of a particular concept. It's easy to follow but as a baseline we'll call it Exponential Divinity. Look at your hand right now, when you look down at it, you only see the flesh that has been with you for the entirety of your life, your hand doesn't think and it has no greater motives. It is an unconscious non creature. That hand is composed of skin and flesh and bone which is composed of millions of different cells all working together which have no knowledge of your existence. Despite some of these cells playing massively important roles in your existence to maintain homeostasis, they don't have any perception aside from the vaguest electrical signal that something must be done in order to keep you alive. Even if these cells were to have the cognitive capabilities, to a higher organism such as yourself, how would you ever be able to perceive that? In the same way that you, the person reading this, have no way to verify anything save for your own thoughts and your own objective reality, you have no way of verifying the objective existence of consciousness for anything other than yourself. If our cells were able to communicate in a way that was so pathetically primitive and rudimentary, we would have no way to actually know, we are too complex to understand the individual existence of a cell despite the fact that we are composed entirely of them. Hubris is one of mankind's greatest faults and the immediate declaration that, "We are the only" is a prime example of that, cells might not have the sophistication of humans or animals however when you compare their communication between each other to that which lacks all forms of communication, how certain can you be that the comparison implies an absence of intelligence? In truth, you cannot. Not without the bias of having the privilege of existing as a greater entity than the cells that make up your hand. If the concept of God or gods if you'd like to play it that way, is said to be something entirely encompassing of mankind, would you not exist as a cell of God? Not as something which is responsible for the creation of God but as something which exists in service of God as a part of God in the same way a blood cell is in service to you? Let's go even further into this as this idea is reflected in the Bible as well as the popular biblical work, The Great Divorce. (Throughout this paper, I make multiple allusions and references to the Bible, God, and the Human Soul. While at first this may appear to be akin to a /x/ schizo ramble of nonsensical spiritual nonsense, I have taken care to not isolate any Atheists or non spiritual individuals from the ideas present. In places where God is referred to and appears to be as the Abrahamic God, consider instead God as the human will of individuality and the desire for self-actualization, in parts where the Abrahamic and esoteric is explicitly mentioned, I ask that if you've the patience to do so, consider the moral lessons present through the lenses of yourself as the self-actualized God, if you're confused as to why a seemingly religious anon is taking care to make sure you can relate to the ideas presented, I suggest proceeding with an open mind to the rest of the doc)

The idea of things so greater than us that we are made uncomprehending and incomprehensible is heavily present when comparing the will of man to the will of the divine, look to Noah who was swallowed by a whale for vanity to rebel against the will of God and steer away from his path. Look to these not explicitly as fact, but rather, as to true meaning, "He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth: he that cometh from heaven is above all." this is ancient word, written generations ago but in it there is immense meaning. That which is from heaven is not said to speak heavenly, but that it is greater in all ways and above that which is below it, that which is lower cannot even begin to approximate the meaning. In The Great Divorce, C.S. Lewis makes the contrast of power between these two things with even greater emphasis as physical mass, the smallest apple of a tree grown in heaven is larger than hell itself and cannot fit through the gates if it was cut to the size of a grain of sand. I am not preaching to you, rather I am using ancient and modern text to highlight an overarching idea, we are not individual in existence. Human beings are cells to larger creatures and larger entities which we can only comprehend in the barest possible way. We are gods to the cell, we are cells to God. This is Exponential Divinity as I've decided to call it.

What's the point of this then and how does this relate to Hololive is probably what you're thinking, well you might remember a meme that's been bouncing around the more mundane parts of the internet on the coat tails of the schizo troll face trend. At face value, it's your generic spooky schizo meme with a vague allusion towards the internet being the vessel through which demons, the adversary, Lucifer, and other creatures of the lower realms will use to corrupt humanity. This is not what I want to focus on, instead we're going to look at what that seal means. That seal specifically is the "Secret Seal of Solomon". I've done research as to the specific meaning of this seal and while new age spiritualism has led to some distortion of what the original intent of the seal was as well as the mixing of terms such as King's Pact, King's Seal, Solomon's Pact, and Solomon's Seal, my findings highlight two particular things.

1. Solomon's Seal refers specifically to the ring bestowed to Solomon by God. This ring was said to give Solomon the power to bind spirits and impress upon them his authority, he was said to specifically lose this authority at the ends of Testament of Solomon after he broke contract with God and became destitute of the wisdom bestowed by God as well as his spiritual integrity. His power and wisdom was lost and his kingdom came to ruin.
2. The King's Pact affects all demons, not in the sense that they must obey the symbol of Solomon's Seal, but that they must respect God's authority and the seals already placed upon them which was necessary to bind them. As the binding of all demons is described in the Testament of Solomon, those seals placed upon them during Solomon's reign will remain eternally...well, that is technically correct, there is a minor loophole, "The Lord thy God liveth, we will not let go this pillar until the world's end. But on whatever day this stone fall, then shall be the end of the world [1]." Very ominous but it does give us some information on what will free them. The death of God and the end of the world.

Assume for a moment that we can acknowledge these demons at least as a thought experiment. These demons are creatures unable to interact with us or communicate in any meaningful way, they do not exist in a physical form as we do and for all intents and purposes lack a soul. Where we as humans are incapable of distinguishing our souls from our bodies and something from a higher plane of existence is said to exist purely without a physical form, then what is a demon? In the instance above, demons are explicitly angels cast out and in that sense what is to be said about them? Simple. They truly, in all sense, lack both soul and body and cannot exist individually and as such, must latch onto the sins and souls of man. This is all still hypothetical of course however doesn't that concept ring a bell? A being of a lower plane, so immensely beneath ourselves that we lack the ability to perceive them entirely. What would they be to us, bound up and restricted beyond the most miniscule of communications? Even less than a cell? An atom? Something so totally simple in the context of our existence that it could be said to simply not exist. Infernal Deconstruction is the simplest way to describe this concept, as in order to even begin to come close to communication with something so below yourself, you must actively make yourself something lesser than a man. Now before I go into how this is all connected to Hololive, /vt/ as a board/, and the current yab, I want to ask you to imagine one more scenario based off of Exponential Divinity. For a moment, let's replace God in this equation, a dangerous thing but something that will help everyone understand this much better. If a cell, spoken in the sense that it is an unknowing vehicle of a greater sentient system, is perhaps aware of us generally but unaware of our consciousness or intelligence, how many different things could we apply that to regarding ourselves as the cell? If we consider ourselves to be macro-organisms in comparison to our cells, couldn't we apply a similar logic to things such as a forest range? We are taught that while trees, and grass, and flowers are living things that do not think and are not conscious, that which makes up its whole is not supposed to be living as well? If something's component's are living, and it exists in such a way to perpetuate itself in a state of self regulation, how is that thing not living? We've vainly tried to approximate and categorize what we believe life to be however in the simple sense, a forest, not just the trees but the whole that makes up a forest, is a creature, a creature which we do not understand intimately and cannot communicate with efficiently but a creature nonetheless. Now here I'm going to make the first connection to all of these concepts and Hololive, some of you might have already guessed this but the easiest way to do so is through Lap+ Darkness, the leader of HoloX the 6th Generation of Hololive JP, called Secret Society. Laplus is named after Pierre Simon Laplace, in reference to a concept known as the Laplace Demon. This is also represented in her lore where Laplus is described as a creature that has a complete understanding of physics, power, and motion of the universe. The Laplace Demon is essentially the same, saying that an intelligence capable of understanding the position of and momentum of every atom and particle in the universe, would then be able to predict the entirety of the future of the universe as well as the entirety of the past, as such, that intelligence would prove that humanity's free will was an illusion by knowing the set course of all that men were, are, and will ever be. If the course of man was set in stone and calculable from the onset of the universe then how can we ever be free if we can only take one knowable action at any given moment. No matter our decision, it was preordained and predestined. Now as I was researching these things, I found leads upon leads that stacked upon each other and carved more connections and deeper holes than I had previously thought, I had believed that Laplus was just a good example to represent a hypothetical demonic force and that her naming convention had been done just to boost off of the idea of a Men in Black type goofy secret society and then I saw the HoloX logo and I realized that this wasn't just a theory. I looked at it for the first time. Really looked at it and realized that it reminded me of something. I thought that it couldn't be what I thought it was because that would lead to a direct link between HoloX and King Solomon, not just a link between King Solomon but Solomon's Seal and the King's Pact. Solomon's Seal. Seals. A lot of you will look at this and realize what it is however I have seen no discussion of this in any archive of /vt/. Believe me I have looked. If there were any discussions of this previously then it is my belief that they have been erased. Do you know why the seal of Solomon on page one of this document is called the Secret Seal of Solomon? That is because there are two others: the hexagram and the pentacle. The six

5. Now when I Solomon heard this, I entered the Temple of God, and prayed with all my soul, night and day, that the demon might be delivered into my hands, and that I might gain authority over him. And it came about through my prayer that grace was given to me from the Lord Sabaoth by Michael his archangel. [He brought me] a little ring, having a seal consisting of an engraved stone, and said to me: "Take, O Solomon, king, son of David, the gift which the Lord God has sent thee, the highest Sabaoth. With it thou shalt lock up all demons of the earth, male and female; and with their help thou shalt build up Jerusalem. [But] thou [must] wear this seal of God. And this engraving of the seal of the ring sent thee is a Pentalpha."

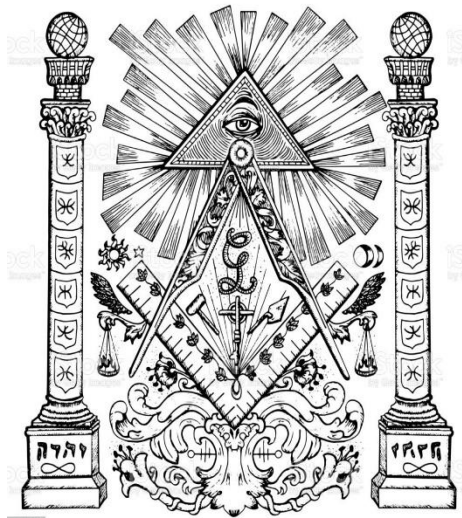

pointed star and the five pointed star. The pentacle specifically is named in the Testament of Solomon, extremely early in the Testament of Solomon:

The Pentacle

SPECIFICALLY is what is used in order to seal demons away. Laplus is shackled 5 times. 5 pointed star, 5 shackles to seal the demon away. This sounds fucking ridiculous right? Playing the number game at this point is ludicrous in order to connect the vtuber avatar of Laplus Darkness to the biblical king Solomon, this is really reaching. Or it would be if not for what a lot of you have hopefully already realized. I did not name the specific connection between Laplus and Solomon as soon as possible because I wanted you to have the same experience that I did when I saw it. Here you go.

If you have 0 knowledge of the occult I will explain. On your left is the symbol of HoloX Secret Society, on your right is the symbol of the real world occult organization known as the Freemasons. The HoloX symbol is an inversion of the Freemason symbol. You can even see the Eye of Providence, along with the square and the compass. When people talk about secret societies and celebrities being involved in them, the Freemasons are what they mean. I'm not going to go into the depths of their influence or any other particular plots that they are speculated of being involved in, however what we're aiming for right now is it's relation to King Solomon, the same King Solomon that authored the Lesser Freemasons often say that they "are not a secret society, but rather a society with secrets". The secrets of Freemasonry are the Key of Solomon, the same King Solomon that is responsible for the Seal of Solomon and the binding of demons. Demons which, according to the Testament of Solomon, built Solomon's Temple and broke favor with God when he sacrificed to gods other than him. They believe in a Supreme Being and the immortality of the soul but they should not be mistaken for followers of any of the Abrahamic religions, <https://www.britannica.com/topic/Freemasonry> so.

Solomon's Temple is a central symbol of Freemasonry which holds that the first three Grand Masters were King Solomon, King Hiram I of Tyre, and Hiram Abiff—the craftsman/architect who built the temple. Masonic initiation rites include the reenactment of a scene set on the Temple Mount while it was under construction. Every Masonic lodge, therefore, is symbolically the Temple for the duration of the degree and possesses ritual objects representing the architecture of the Temple. These may either be built into the hall or be

Do you remember Laplace's Demon? A being of omnipotence with an understanding of all physics, all power, and all motions in the universe? A being that from its existence, implies a fundamental lack of free will in all of humanity? Something that would by most means, be referred to as a god. This sounds like it fits snugly into the idea of a Supreme Being doesn't it? Let's return to those concepts of Exponential Divinity, of things that exist on a realm higher than us in such a way that we cannot comprehend them. I've mentioned things such as forests being capable of consciousness in a way that we cannot perceive however lets take that to it's furthest degree. Perhaps a society could be conscious in a way that we could never grasp, if a forest could then whose to say that a society doesn't have a mouth and a hand and cannot give birth and rot away. Isn't America a distant relative of ancient Rome? We exist every day in systems that govern us and we have no way to interact with those things directly, we understand that on some level, most of us will never know the absolute innerworkings of our nations and accept that our presence within it is negligible. It is bigger than us and far more complex, composed of billions of different cells and organs. How about a company? Isn't a company the same way? Doesn't it eat and reproduce and branch out and breed? Couldn't it too be conscious on a macro level that we can never truly grasp. Look at this with massive skepticism, but look at it, we consider these things to be so much bigger than we are, not just in the sense that our total influence on its function is often totally negligible at a certain size but also due to the complexity involved to the most miniscule level to maintain its functionality. The inverse is true as well.

A demon, as I consider it, is a creature without body or soul that must cling to men in order to make itself strong. They cling to sin, they cling to grief, they cling to all that they can in order to convince you of their own power. A demon is a shadow that wishes to convince you that it is a god. When people on a board like /x/ talk about communing with demons, why is it that the response is overwhelmingly negative? Remember, anon, remember earlier what was written, “Infernal Deconstruction is the simplest way to describe this concept, as in order to even begin to come close to communication with something so below yourself, you must actively make yourself something lesser than a man.” They lack body and soul so they will gladly take yours when you offer it to them expecting something great in return. Demons are so miniscule in comparison to a normal man that in truth, the idea that we would ever hold a term to describe them is odd. It is because of the images set upon them and the power that has been given to them in the form of depiction and ritual and worship, they have grown because men have given themselves up to things lower than them and are deceived into believing they have gained. Infernal Deconstruction. Now let’s talk about their greatest trick, when you imagine a demon, you imagine a physical creature, something that takes up space or is some mold of man and animal. That is a great deception. They have no form and they have no soul. They are nothing, nonexistent. Anon, how do you hold a company? How do you hold a corporation? What does its face look like? These macro creatures that we believe have such grand force, such power that can’t be attributed or controlled by a single person, these powers that can make people into slaves, what is more demonic when something such as that views a human as a commodity? What is more grotesque than the echo of a ghost wielding a whip to scourge you? We rage when these things treat us inhumanely but what were we to ever expect from something that was never human in the first place.

You see, Exponential Divinity does not apply to things made by man, a city is only a city, a company cannot touch you, a society will never walk past you. You are greater than that because you are a human being made up of soul and flesh, and though the two are often mistaken neither is absent. The problem is that Infernal Deconstruction can ONLY apply to things made by man, from man. Infernal Deconstruction is the process of destroying yourself in service of an ideal held by something that doesn’t exist. I’m not saying that Hololive as a whole is filled with demons, however, the way that the board reacts to these things is precisely what will cause the rise of these demons. No longer is it about the human, instead the concept is what is held above the life. If Mike Neko had actually committed suicide, what would be of Rushia? A concept whose power led to the death of a human. This is a hypothetical but you should think on that because as more chuubas decide to enter this business and more yabs are destined to occur, there will be people born and swallowed whole by these non-existent things that they’ve devoted so much to. It is very clear to me that there is an agenda that spans the board, vtubing, and our societies as a whole and while the vast majority of us aren’t actively in on it, we often find ourselves naturally offering up our bodies and souls to things that aren’t there and never have been. You could call it Corporate or Cultural Demonic Possession if you want but it is at its baseline the same, the desire to make you come to heel to that which does not exist and to profess your devotion to it.

This has always been occurring, look at the Testament of Solomon and recognize the meaning that's below the surface, at first glance he was compelled by a woman led astray by devils to sacrifice to foreign gods other than God himself and was left without the divine support that brought him so high in the first place. However, consider it now that Solomon's folly was lowering himself to attain something from creatures that were themselves made of weaker things than the wind, how could they ever give him anything worth what they ask? What gift that is lighter than the very air is worthy of a pint of your blood?

I am not suggesting you suddenly follow the roommates of your chuubas, though they're masked behind an avatar, there is still a soul behind that, a person that has weight and worth in the world. What is fatal is taking the unreal and presenting it above the real with the gusto and power of the human spirit. Again, look at the state of /vt/, look at how vile and low we are all brought down when we devote the love and positive emotions, we have for real people to propping up an illusion.

“Holobronies” “Nijniggers”

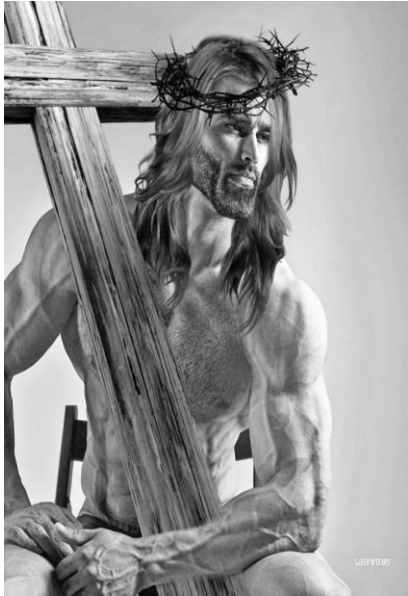

“Vwhorejokes” all three throw stones at each other and are convinced through hallucination that a wall stands between them and will stop the other's projectile from knocking out their teeth and when they're knocked down on their asses one by one and made bloody, they wonder when the wind will lift them up when the only thing that ever could was another person or themselves. Do you remember on the very first few pages when I said, “For a moment, lets replace God in this equation, a dangerous thing but something that will help everyone understand this much better.” We will do so again, this time through the realm of what I believe to be the truth of the conspiracy. If you want to attribute it to the masons, do so however the end is all the same. Let us replace the concept of God, both God in the religious sense and God in the self actualized sense, with the Demon Laplace. The Demon is not like God, it is a demon and like all demons it is nonexistent in soul and body, through Infernal Deconstruction it has wrought its form from countless others and now acts as a larper who has spread their deceit and lies so far that they have taken the rightful place of God. The Demon knows of all that is, was, and will ever be and as such, it ushers complete and total subservience. What is to become of a man that is made to treat something demonic, something of an inherent lower realm whose worth is dust, like God? This is the Final Yab, the slow and painful death of love, life, and soul which convinces one to be complacent in their misery and to know misery that is incomparable. Both the spiritual and the non-spiritual can share this term, for this is Darkness. A Darkness that comes when the Demon has stolen our eyes so that we bite and snap at each other without knowing our faces, a Darkness that turns our heads from that which brings us joy in order to pounce upon each other at a moment's notice, a Darkness that has us rage and rage until the result of that rage is a hollow life, devoid of hope where the days no longer have meaning and the sky is contained in a world that is less than lifeless. Did you know that one does not burn in hell for eternity? It is a great error which was perpetuated do to the slight sensitivity of the wording. A man burns in hell until eternity, for at the end of eternity, all things are unmade and the ultimate silence is achieved.

The current yab and the state of the board has most likely occurred to you now, that is to say, Kson and her union with Vshojou as well as her declaration to end the current standard of corporate vtubing and by proxy, the destruction of demons. I am unsure if Kson is totally aware of what she acts towards or if her will was so defined that from the beginning as her mask of Coco, she had stepped in sync with herself without ever losing stride, however it should be said that the threat she poses to the current plot is clear to see, her ability to stay resolute during times of extreme duress and care for the people around her makes her someone that is dangerous, which is why HoloX was released only after she had gotten distance from Hololive. Why was it that when the Kson "yab" occurred, several generals who stood long and held reputations of being civil and kind to one another, were thrown off of the board and stamped at with such prejudice that some considered not to return. Are these not generals which we've always known and when has /meat/ ever steered in anyway less than civil and polite towards each other and us all? Even outside of Hololive, though I'm unsure of its total progression, the Demon is not slumbering. Of narratives I cannot speculate, however tension is apparent though who that tension belongs to is not. Demons are fearful of individuals that are assured of their own paths and walk without malice towards their ends, they know that to these people, they will not be seen when their paths cross and they are destined to be trampled upon without ever being acknowledged and revealed to have never been at all. Do not misconstrue me and believe that I am commanding that you love every chuuba and every anon, I do not love every chuuba and I do not love every anon. I only tell you what it is to lower yourself in order bare a hate on behalf of something which only seeks to own you, Infernal Deconstruction. If you are to rage, don't do it on behalf of a demon, do it knowing for yourself why you rage so that you no longer fall expecting the wind to catch you or battle half blinded by hallucination. If you are to hate, know what you hate, don't walk the path of those that willingly lower themselves to non-existent demons. Love your chuubas for who they are and not the numbers that they bring because if I were to look into these numbers I do not doubt that I would then find another means by which the soulless plans to ensnare you and make you kneel.

As a final piece, I should mention that in the case of Laplace's Demon, it should be said that it's existence is something which can never be. Entropy makes certain that we cannot return to what we once had once it was lost, as such, the Laplace Demon cannot attain victory over man. They are incapable of knowing the past and as such they can only reign over what is unknown. They do not possess a perfect knowledge of the nature of universal physics, motions, and power, it can only predict based off of its own beginnings and as such it can only rule through uncertainty. That is not a being higher than man, that is nothing at all. If you take anything away from these pages than let it be that unity in the mind and soul is a necessity towards a healthy being.

Do note that while Laplus Darkness and the members of HoloX Secret Society are used in this paper to denote the possibility of a conspiracy within Hololive, Laplus herself as well as HoloX do not appear conscious of this conspiracy in the slightest. In fact, there is a chance that the symbolism of HoloX's logo, is orchestrated with the purpose of a document like this eventually being made. There are forces inside and outside of Hololive that are fighting this Demonic Incursion, however if I were to go any further than that, I might risk exposure of them and do more harm than good.

