

Carlsbad 1819

Like another Chouannerie

All of Thermidor Magazine's readers are gay

September 12, 2018 by Nulle Terre Sans Seigneur

But there is an opportunity for penance, as Thermidor is now dead and gone for good.
(<https://thermidormag.com/about-2/>).

A queer little publication — not quite NRx, not quite Christian integralist, idiosyncratic and muddled, but with plenty of interesting contributors (Walter Devereux and Richard Greenhorn are the two most memorable, in the earlier days there was also H.D. Alemann who caught my eye.) P.T. Carlo recently made the decision to terminate it, in order to pursue other projects, and so that was the end of it.

I'm not in a position to say much at the moment, but a good deal of Thermidor's more worthwhile essays will be reposted to a future publication still in the works. NRx is mostly deceased by now, and that's probably for the better. There is an opening for a post-liberal current with recent examples like Patrick Deneen and Adrian Vermeule cutting some space for it without being completely ravaged. I believe the intent is to pursue such a course without being bogged down in older labels that have since acquired legacies of ambiguity. I look forward to watching this development.

This entry was posted in Uncategorized. Bookmark the permalink.

8 thoughts on “All of Thermidor Magazine's readers are gay”

1. Pingback: All of Thermidor Magazine's readers are gay | Reaction Times

2. pedantic moron says:

September 13, 2018 at 3:04 am

GWM reporting in.

F

Reply.

3. Richard Consgay says:

September 14, 2018 at 1:24 pm

Hello Carlsbad,

I am sad about Thermidor's demise. While I agree that it had been floundering for the previous month or two and that it probably didn't have much of a future due to it sitting at an ambiguous fulcrum, it seemed to be petulant to take down the entire site's archives and rely on authors to repost their content somewhere else.

On another note, I am planning on starting a magazine of my own, with a British focus. I don't suppose you're interested at all in helping out? Could be us making use of some of your older articles, or if you have anything in the pipeline that's congruent with our interests we could put it up. It would boost both our reaches.

Reply.o Nulle Terre Sans Seigneur says:September 14, 2018 at 2:33 pm

There has been a sudden boom in desire to start new magazines (or let's be more accurate, group blogs) among the ex-Thermidor circle, and I'm not sure if I want to keep up with all of it.

That said, I wouldn't have anything against letting you repost some of my articles if I approve of your publication's editorial focus once I actually get to see it.

Reply.

o Richard Consgay says:

September 16, 2018 at 12:10 am

That's reasonable. I imagine you've got a good enough outlet and audience at this point.

We're currently doing the logistical footwork and so on. The site itself will be up in the next couple of weeks. I'll get in touch again once that happens to let you take a look.

Reply.4. Pingback: Thermidor Magazine – RIP – NeoPopulism

5. Symphonia says:

September 17, 2018 at 12:17 pm

Not related to this post in particular but I wanted to say I really liked your blog.

Being an integralist and a counter-revolutionary at heart, I agree with your viewpoints. But I have a hard time seeing how we could escape an ethno-nationalist/populist outlook in practice. For instance, how do you "bring back" an estate-based society? How should a new aristocracy grow? How do you keep a modern state while breaking its bureaucracy? (You talked about re-feudalization once). How do you "entrust" employees to employers (I'm quite curious about your economic ideas)?

Reply.

6. Aldon says:

February 11, 2021 at 1:42 pmStone Age Herbalist @Paracelsus1092 · Feb 9, 2021

Replying to @Paracelsus1092

Specifically though it is a technology of the Neolithic, of milk, meat and grain. Some hunter gatherers do ferment food but the concentration of livestock, starch, lactose and humans together is the major development of strains and species of microbe.

Stone Age Herbalist

@Paracelsus1092

Viewed another way, the agricultural revolution was a mutual agreement between mammals and microbes to exploit one another, including pathogens.

3:12 PM · Feb 9, 2021

♡ 24 💬 Reply ↗ Share

Read 1 reply

Mantis T

@Mantis_T123

(Later that day The Libertarians decide to weigh in)

"You're violating the non aggression principle. So actually it's you that is the real fascist"

6:01 PM · Feb 10, 2021

♡ 1 💬 Reply ↗ Share

Explore what's happening on Twitter

Way of the World

@wayotworld

Watch on Twitter

3:08 PM · Feb 10, 2021

763 Reply Share

Read 12 repliesMantis T

@Mantis_T123

"At least I'm not speaking German and I died totally owning the Libs"

5:24 PM · Feb 10, 2021

4 Reply Share

Explore what's happening on TwitterStone Age Herbalist

@Paracelsus1092

"Contrary to what many believe, neither the genetic or fossil record have revealed a defined time and place for the origin of our species. Such a point, when the traits we associate with our species appeared, may not have existed"

phys.org

On the origin of our species

Experts from the Natural History Museum, The Francis Crick Institute and the Max Planck Institu...

3:33 PM · Feb 10, 2021

♡ 25 💬 Reply ↗ Share

Read 2 replies

Stone Age Herbalist

@Paracelsus1092

I for one am shocked that the sexual and identity revolution always leads to nonces arguing that children are oppressed by adults and are capable of consent.

James Lindsay, very low value account @ConceptualJames

"The Basics of Adultism," by some ridiculous asshole.
adamfletcher.net/2018/12/11/the...

3:53 AM · Feb 7, 2021

♡ 15 💬 Reply ↗ Share

Read 1 reply

Rauðgrani RINDPRAH

@GraniRau

Something something emergent properties.

ELBrooks- medieval futurist @PoetRegressive

Cringe: life requires an intelligent design because of the irreducible complexity of its physical parts

Based: life requires a formal cause from a living agent because it has perfections not present in unliving matter twitter.com/Atticist/statu...

2:02 AM · Feb 7, 2021

♡ 2 💬 Reply ↗ Share

Explore what's happening on Twitter

Rauðgrani RINDPRAH

@GraniRau

The Muslims do it better. They don't bother trying to cram their god into a Jewish rabbi(or wizard) or make him the Israelite tribal god. They just say Allah is truly universal and transcends all national boundaries. Sent prophets to everyone in the past, even. twitter.com/speckzopolitic...

2:54 PM · Feb 6, 2021

♡ 6 💬 Reply ↗ Share

Read 2 replies

Raiden

@SeekerRaiden

The origin of libtardism

Funny then, that the Korran only mentions J prophets and declines to mention any of the other ones that were apparently sent

— Beautiful Sunshine (@Sunshine2014x) February 6, 2021

What are the worst “right” memes of history?

Reply.

Website Built with WordPress.com.