I hate frontend dev work, it annoys me getting the XYZ and pixel things right. And then I have to deal with different resolutions it sucks. However, im proud of these I scripted this weekend. These dont look half bad at all.

Tomorrow is the 25th anniversary of Half-Life. The game and its engine mean a lot to me. I built my community on its foundations, and I wouldn't be where I am without it. I remember 10-year-old me playing a pirated copy of it, and ever since then, I have spent nearly 20,000 hours on Source and GoldSrc games. Much of that time was spent working on my custom servers and mods. I doubt I would even have my job without half-life, I would be such a different person without this game.

I made a quick website that allows you to download YouTube videos as MP3 or MP4. I saw a bunch of scam websites with a bunch of ads and adware and I have been meaning to get this setup for a while. Will cost me £10 a year to host as Google gives you free hosting, so I just need to pay for the domain.

My New Room. Honestly thanks to my flat mates for helping me move and get this new start. My old room was a mess, but I'm not going to let this one get like that Quite shocking to be honest... what was the reason why they needed to get rid of them?

A tough couple of days but been keeping my mind busy on finishing Gotrek. He has been unpainted for 4 years nearly now so really happy I got the motivation to finish him. Will def see play down at the Venue to kill some Vermin and Urk Things!
