Intro

To those who have played at the first edition: welcome back. To those who haven't: welcome.

Double format

You will form teams of 2, facing other teams. Find your teammates in the usual #yakuman/v/irgins on Rizon (enter and ask, it's usually pretty ded if no one starts to talk), in the /mjpg/ thread (>inb4 namefaggin), or just get a >friend to join you.

Anybody who can't find a partner will get paired up by me, so don't worry about it (>inb4 autism prevents me from finding a partner, >inb4 what if I fuck up). I will post the players after they register, so you can find each other, and plan strategies.

Initial placements are fixed as North-East vs South-West to promote chi cooperation. Depending on your feedback comments we can change to total random (last tourney was like this, then in final I was asked to switch to random).

The rules of the hanchan are the standard ones, but the winner shall be the team with the most points, that is get at least 50k. Uma isn't used.

One thing to note is that dealer winning in south 4, while being first, will not end the match. This is to avoid ruining an eventual s4 comeback.

If you bust out, the other team wins. Don't give up until the end.

Communications between teammates are left to your discretion (irc text is perfectly enough, some people use voice), but don't expect to win just because you have shared screens :^)
