

BAKUNIRU

Based on an original work by

TOGE TOGERO III

Hi there. My name is Bakumaru.
I'm just an average hamster who lives in the city of Hamsterdam.

All my life, all the adults around me, including my parents, would tell me comics
were a waste of time.

It's time you moved on.

Comic books are a waste of time!

And for a while,
I thought they had a point.

But deep within those woods, something happened that would change my life forever...

I met an old hermit named Elder Ham, who explained that he was once the holder of the Pika Pika Hammer.

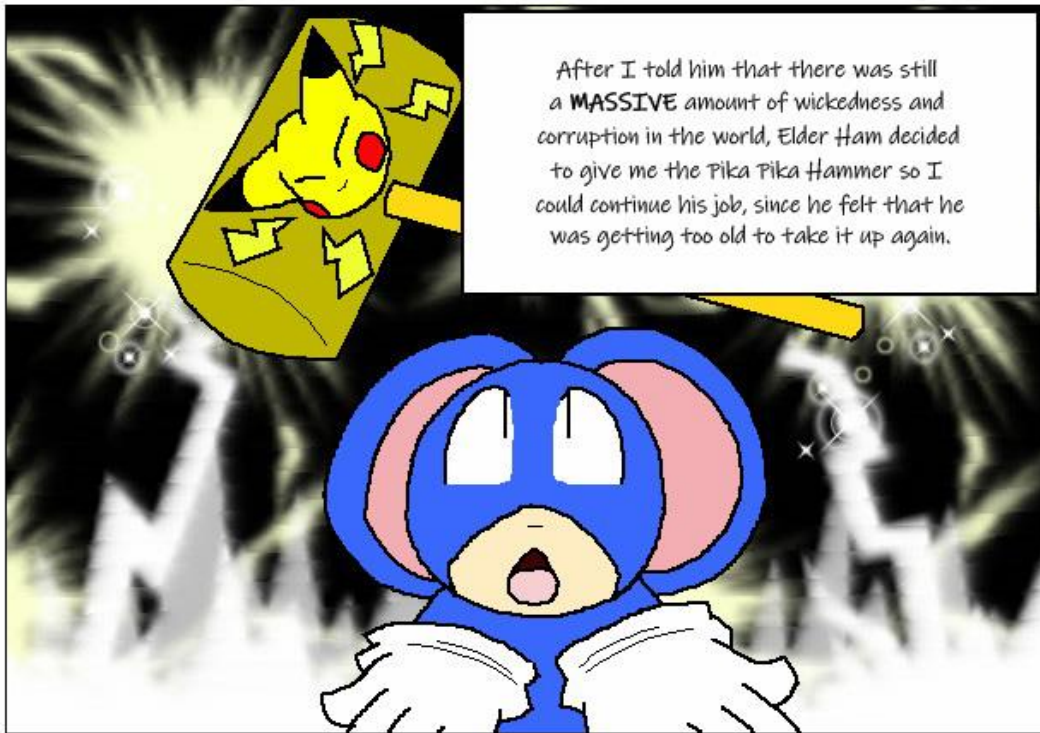

The Pika Pika Hammer is a powerful tool he used to fight against the forces of evil.

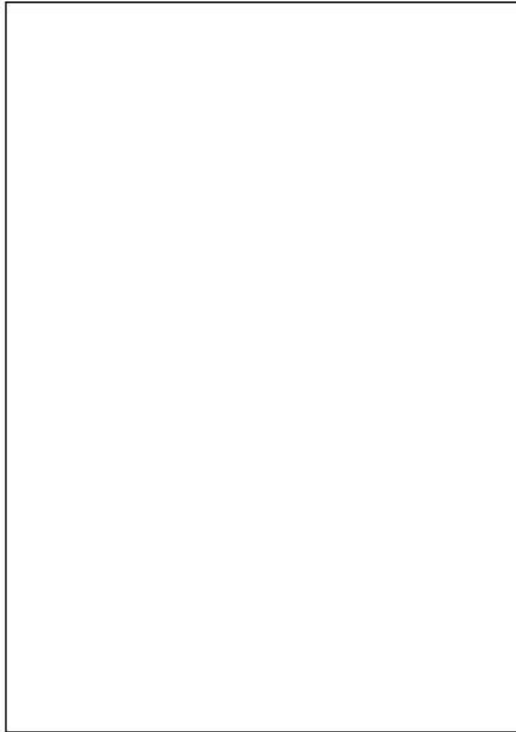

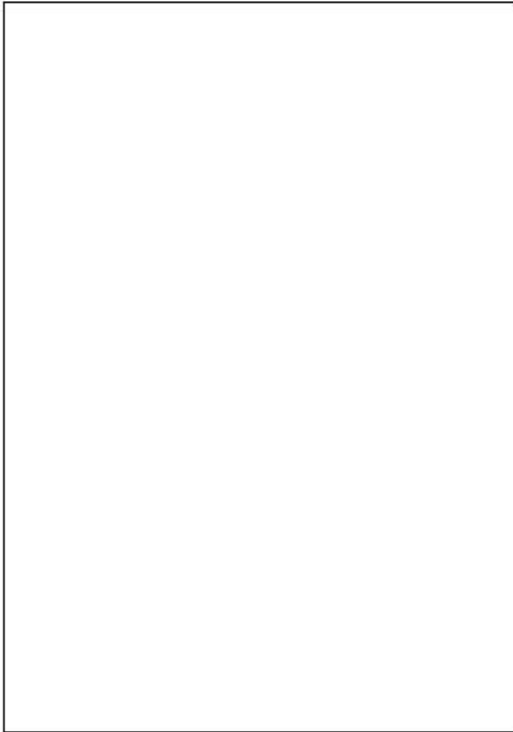

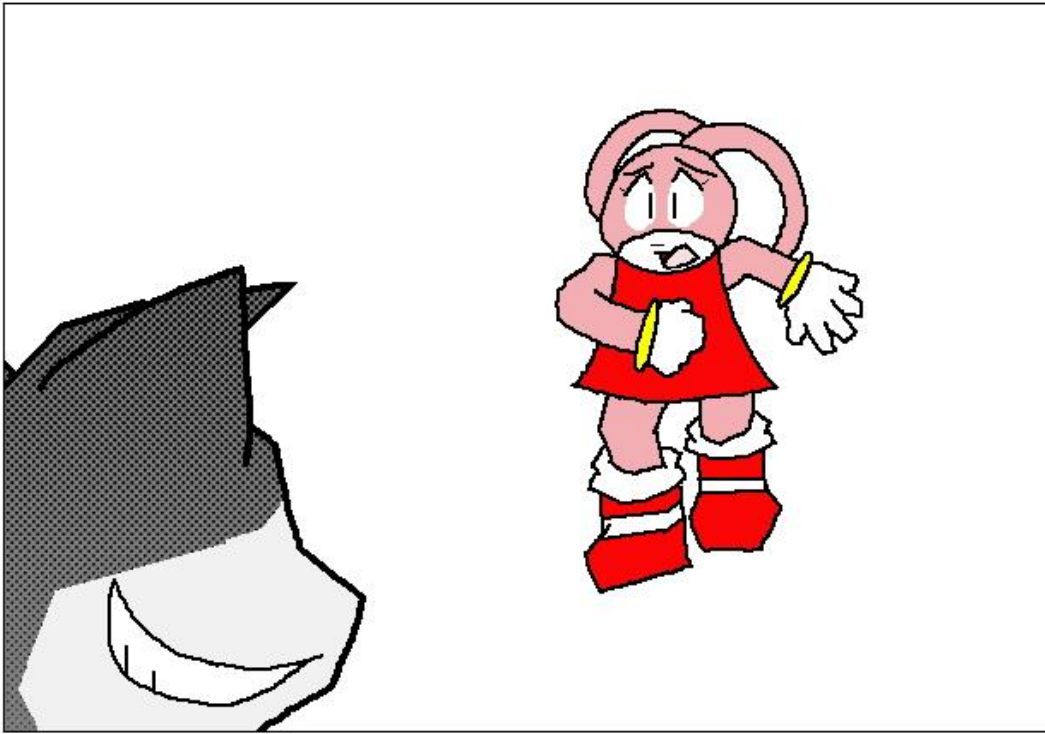

One day, he discovered that the people of the world didn't need saving anymore.

With him feeling as if his job had been finished, he stored away the Pika Pika Hammer and went into hiding.

You liked the comic, didn't you? Wish there were more pages?

Well, that's all there was. There aren't any more.

This was supposed to be a hilarious action comic made for April Fool's day. It would make fun of comics/manga and tell an overarching plot that would last more than one volume. But because of the rampant pollution in my country, I couldn't make any of that happen.

The people who are polluting the planet have single-handedly ruined my life, and I want revenge.

Call your governor or municipal government and demand them to circumvent smoking and emissions from factories so we can have the clean air necessary for healthy living and so I can get back the world I lost to big industrial businesses.

If you want more information on Bakumaru or the fate of my job as a character designer/comic artist, send an email to ArtistNinten@hotmail.com and I'll give you all the answers you'll need.

This isn't the end? Is it?