This is not a hate campaign and I request nobody attacks Kanna/Plague as a result of this document. Please just read it and make informed decisions about what you run on your machine and if you trust its developer.

Hello, I (LargestBoi) would like to preface the following document by stating my objective and motivation for creating it. I've heard Kanna intends to make an auto-updater for their "Kanna Protect" system, meaning that the code running on your machine can be modified at any moment, and put your personal data and your computer's security at risk. Throughout this document I will provide examples where Kanna's character is shown for what it really is, and provide multiple examples of their behavior and why they shouldn't ever be trusted with installing programs on your machines.

Kanna (formerly known under the alias "Plague" <- fitting) currently manages and maintains a system called "Kanna Protect" (https://github.com/PlagueVRC/AntiRip), that offers a solution to VRChat's blatant issues regarding avatar protection against theft. It works by scrambling the avatar's meshes and obfuscating other assets, then using custom shaders to visually unscramble said meshes in-game. It works well for being a free solution but it won't stop anybody really, and can be bypassed with something as simple as "parameter logging".
Kanna is passing this off as a far better solution than it actually is, while smearing other solutions from other developers. But at the same time, Kanna's tool consists of just a few changes to the original project it inherits most of its code from (https://github.com/rygo6/GTAvaCrypt), plus adding code from another anti-ripping technique (https://github.com/Ess-Ka/EsskaAV3Obfuscator). Also the original system has been bypassed very easily before (https://gitlab.com/-/snippets/2202094). This is not their own original concept or work, and in reality doesn't stop anyone with a basic skill set regarding client modification or asset bundle structure knowledge.

Kanna has a history of being inappropriate with minors, logging private/personal user information of those who used their mods (without user knowledge or consent) until VRChat implemented EAC, and being a pathological liar:
1. Here we have examples of code from Kanna's old "VRC AntiCrash" mod where it logs and sends user information to a webhook controlled by them.

2. Messaging a minor, sending inappropriate pictures and admitting to sexting with yet another minor.

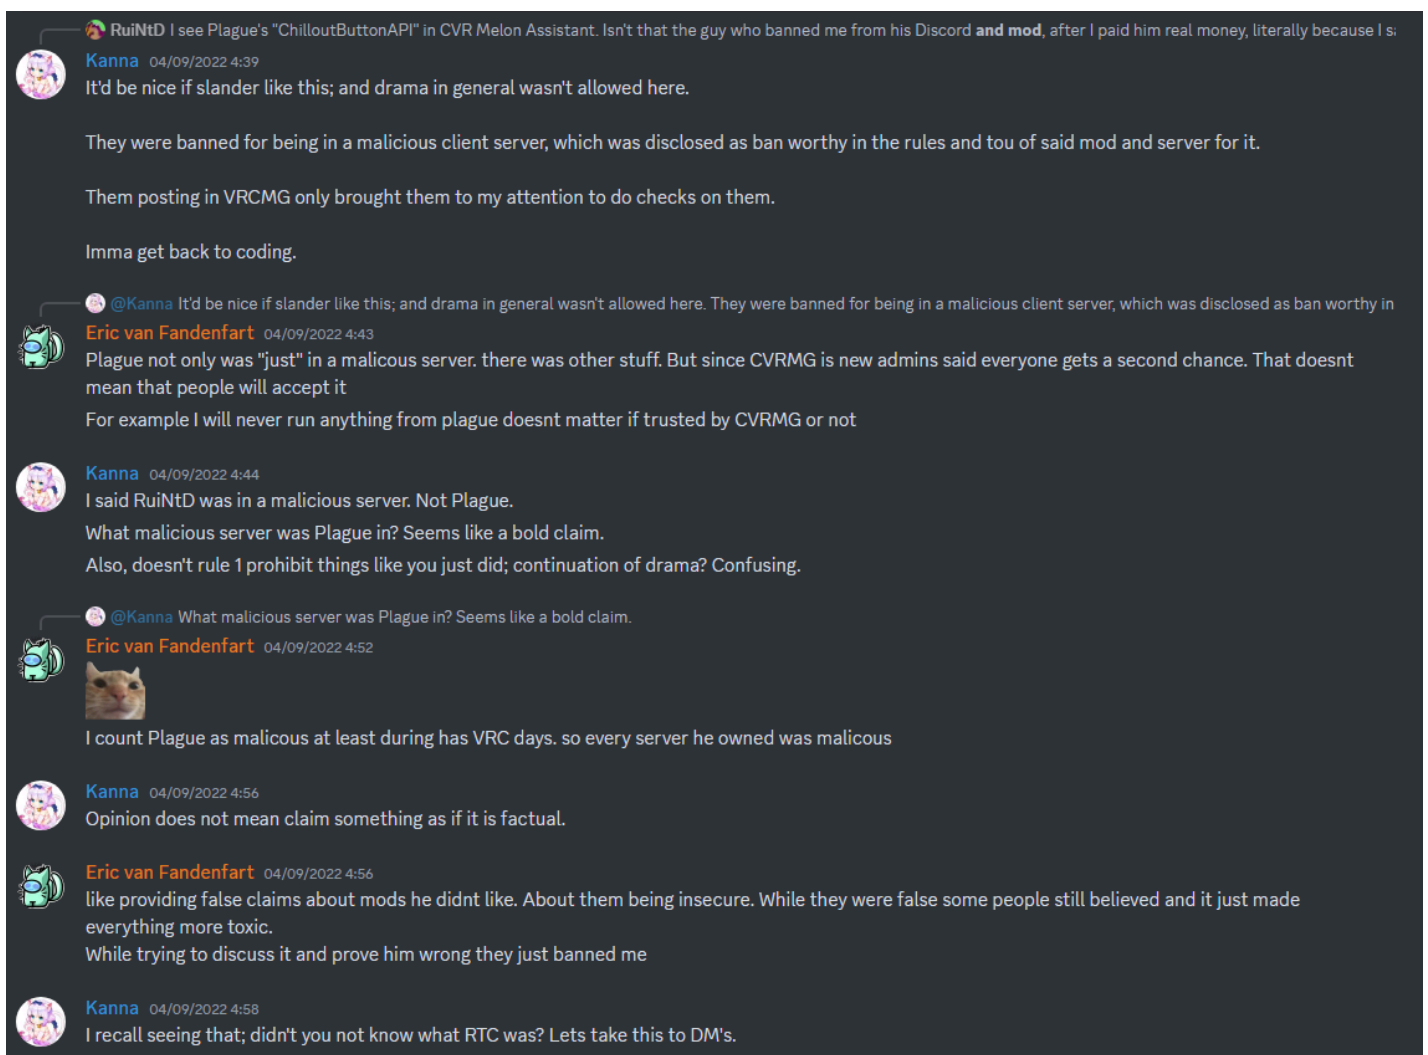

3. Selling the ability to bypass their own AntiCrash mod. This shows they desire money over the security and actual purpose of their own utilities.

4. Known modders referring to Kanna/Plague's previous crimes related to placing malware within their published mods.

RuiNtD 25/08/2022 21:51
Hey, y'all. Mind if I be petty in here for a min?
I see Plague's "ChilloutButtonAPI" in CVR Melon Assistant. Isn't that the guy who banned me from his Discord and mod, after I paid him real money, literally because I said his name in VRCMG? (editado)
Just curious. 😹
Like, I genuinely don't trust the guy and don't know why his mod is listed. (editado)

Also defending themself with alt accounts (before it was known that Plague changed their name to Kanna).

It'd be nice if slander like this; and drama in general wasn't allowed here.

They were banned for being in a malicious client server, which was disclosed as ban worthy in the rules and tou of said mod and server for it.

Them posting in VRCMG only brought them to my attention to do checks on them.

Imma get back to coding.

> @Kanna It'd be nice if slander like this; and drama in general wasn't allowed here. They were banned for being in a malicious client server, which was disclosed as ban worthy in

Eric van Fandenfart 04/09/2022 4:43
Plague not only was "just" in a malicous server. there was other stuff. But since CVRMG is new admins said everyone gets a second chance. That doesnt mean that people will accept it
For example I will never run anything from plague doesnt matter if trusted by CVRMG or not

Kanna 04/09/2022 4:44
I said RuiNtD was in a malicious server. Not Plague.
What malicious server was Plague in? Seems like a bold claim.
Also, doesn't rule 1 prohibit things like you just did; continuation of drama? Confusing.

> @Kanna What malicious server was Plague in? Seems like a bold claim.

Eric van Fandenfart 04/09/2022 4:52

I count Plague as malicous at least during has VRC days. so every server he owned was malicous

Kanna 04/09/2022 4:56
Opinion does not mean claim something as if it is factual.

Eric van Fandenfart 04/09/2022 4:56
like providing false claims about mods he didnt like. About them being insecure. While they were false some people still believed and it just made everything more toxic.
While trying to discuss it and prove him wrong they just banned me

Kanna 04/09/2022 4:58
I recall seeing that; didn't you not know what RTC was? Lets take this to DM's.

5. More cases of known wholesome modders talking about Kanna/Plague's controversies and illicit acts.

Herp Derpinstein 22/08/2020 14:46
Plague has been known to steal mods from here and put malicious code in them caught them on multiple occasions they also tried to claim emmVRC was their creation at one point and try to say Emilia just maintains it like bruh how can you be that dumb 🤦 even the VRCAntiCrash is copypasta from an old mod

knah 22/08/2020 14:48
Plague also stores passwords for a thing in a public, unencrypted, unhashed text file on dropbox
That's all you need to know about their security skills

Herp Derpinstein 22/08/2020 14:50
yeah thats another thing they are known to do they also steal your login information (editado)

Cutie Lewko 22/08/2020 14:51
Bruh

knah 22/08/2020 14:51
Did they actually go that low? Random personal info sure, but I haven't heard about plague specifically yoinking logins
(it's not hard to imagine them doing that though)

Herp Derpinstein 22/08/2020 14:52
how the original issue was found out was they locked someone out of their account because they broke up with Plague's sister or some shit like that not joking
thats when we originally found out they were stealing mods

Cutie Lewko 22/08/2020 14:52
Thats sorta fucking sad

knah 01/02/2021 16:47
If you check plague's discord, they do have a message buried somewhere deep explaining that their mods sends them a crapton of info (including HWID, IP, user ID, avatar IDs of avatars you use, and who knows what else) and provides them with the ability to control your game in certain ways (i.e. send you to your home world, close your game, and a few other moderately unpleasant things)
(assuming it didn't get deleted, and it most certainly got buried)

Potato 01/02/2021 16:52
this is wayyyy over what the mod needs to collect to function, and is essentially the same as installing parental controls on your game/pc/phone etc (editado) which... in PC terms, we could technically call this a RAT(Remote Access Trojan) malware (editado)

knah 01/02/2021 16:56
Well, that is exactly what plague aims for - they want total control over their users. Their claim is that it's so that they can monitor their users (so they don't use crasher avatars) or pull them out of populated instances (if/when they do), but it's all still very easy to abuse and could be disastrous if hacked. I guess some people are okay with that, so more power to them ¯_(ツ)_/¯

Patchuuri 01/02/2021 17:03
wat
you can literally pay him to bypass his own mod prevent users using crash avatars lol read #announcements please 01/08/2022 2:39

Yup. in particular , plague's "anticrash" DLL logs every avatar and every world the user encounters.

Anonymous-BCFED 01/08/2022 2:40
OK because he's REEEEing in my inbox on my main for daring to mention it

Anonymous-BCFED 01/08/2022 2:44
OK and he admits that every button press in one of his APIs was logged because ??? but it's totally not malware trust him. I got tired of his shit and blocked him.
Thanks for the info.

From here the evidence isn't them committing crimes or them doing anything particularly evil, but it instead consists of their lack of respect to others and constant spamming to advertise their programs:

1. Advertising in the AvatarGuard server, where the developer "notcake" hosts his own anti-ripping solution.
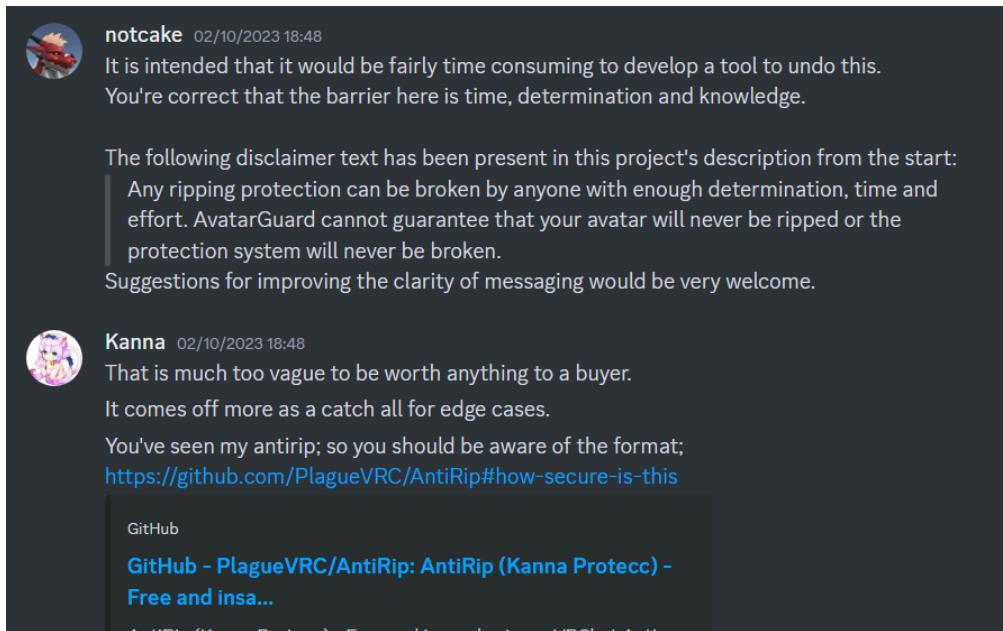

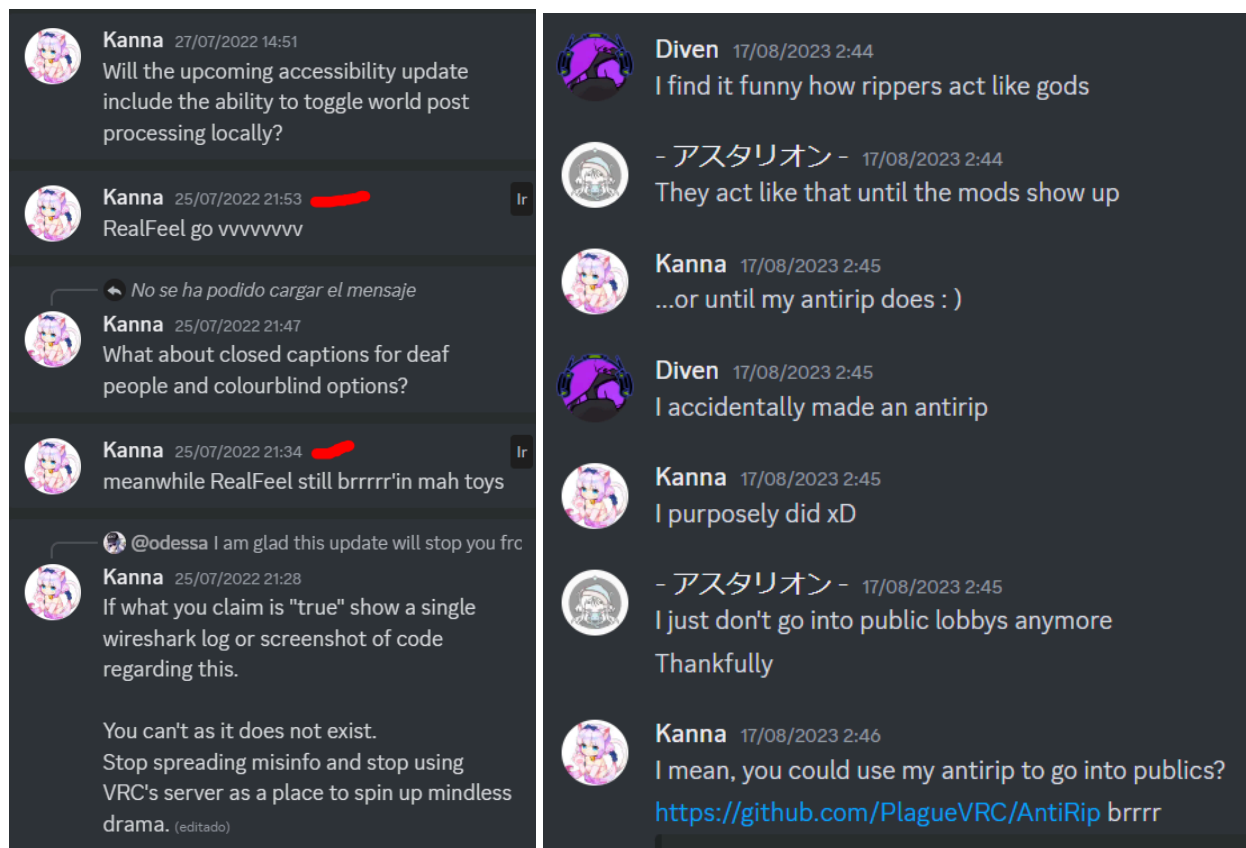

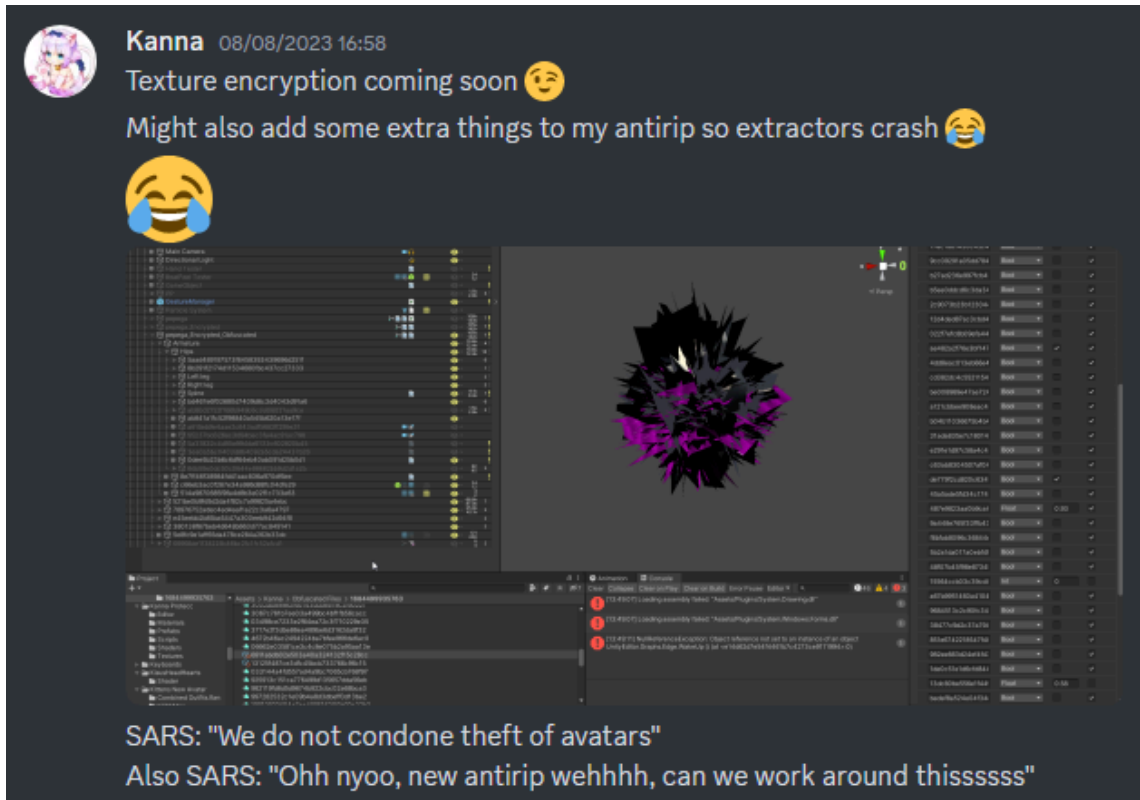

Kanna kept speaking down to him about their avatar protection methods, even if are totally valid and correct. As somebody who has examined both systems, I can state AvatarGuard protects an avatar FAR BETTER than Kanna Protect does. Sadly the system no longer works.

2. Spamming their tools in the VRChat server.
