

I am a 31 year old Transmasc Nonbinary as of writing this document, and I used to be a NSFW artist for a long time now, starting back in I think in 2010. I never really posted much publicly, mostly on Tumblr in 2012 long before the porn ban of 2018, where I then migrated to Twitter in 2019.

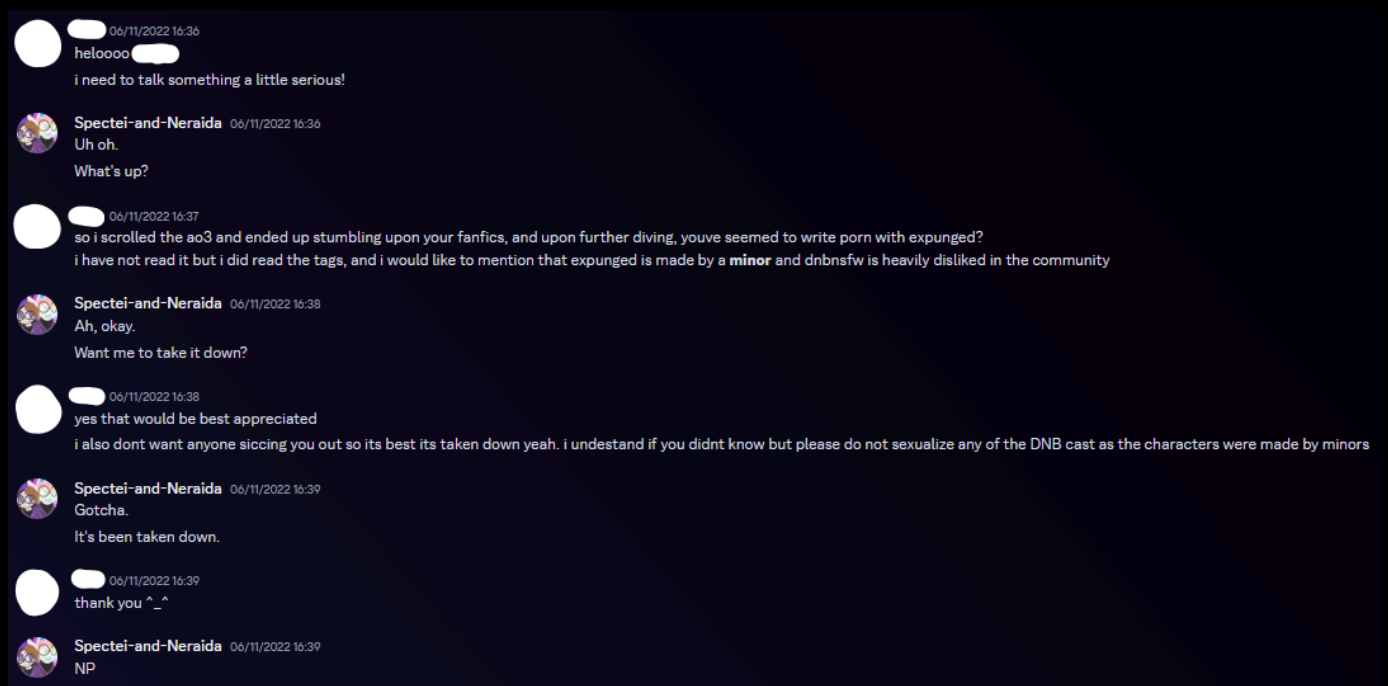

However, I abandoned that account in December of 2022, as I want to focus more on presenting a more professional side of myself on Twitter (don't get me wrong I'm not family friendly, I just don't post or draw NSFW anymore) along with dealing with what I now know is hypersexuality due to trauma.

Now skipping forward to between October-November of 2022 I discovered the Dave and Bambi subcategory of the FNF community, and my interest in Expunged grew to a... fairly unhealthy obsession, to the point I wrote a NSFW fanfic called "It Takes Two" on AO3, involving Expunged and Squid from Will You Snail, under my main account.

Yes, I am the author of that fanfiction that was up for a short time on AO3 before it was taken down. It was posted under a NSFW pseudonym.

At this time, I was fresh new into the DnB fandom and was ONLY looking at the art and works that people have made for it, not doing my proper due diligence and researching more into the mod itself and its creators. I just assumed that the stuff I saw was normal for people to make and post.

It wasn't until in November of 2022 that one of my close friends saw the fic and DMed me something that I did not know: The creators of the mod were minors.

I took down the fanfic upon request, out of respect for the creators, and afterwards I abandoned my NSFW Twitter account and started making changes to myself.

Looking back at this now I feel disgusted and uncomfortable knowing that I made a whole-ass porn fanfic of a minor's character. I deeply regret doing this due to my lack of proper research.

I still like Expunged, I still ship them with Ashe and still ask for commissions of the ship. I just now have a WAY better understanding of the creator's boundaries to not make such content anymore, and would like to keep it that way for as long as I'm alive.

My intentions were to never harm anyone and I was simply having fun, but it was obvious I overstepped some boundaries, and had it not been for my friend informing me I would have continued to have created more NSFW works involving Expunged, and knowing that I would not see myself as the same....

Basically, at my age, I should have known better.

I apologize for anyone that stumbled across the fanfiction and had the guts to read it, this was a huge error on my end that never should've been brought to the light of day. Like I said, I took it down out of respect for the creators.

I also apologize if the document is short and feels half-baked. I'm not very good with apologies but I want to do my best to convey that while I was in the wrong, I never meant to do any harm to anyone whatsoever. It was simply a result of my emotions and attraction to a fictional character getting the best of me, and I am now working hard to not let such a thing happen again in the future.

If this changes anyone's opinions about me as a result of this admittance, I completely understand. I'm not swaying you to sympathize with me, nor am I trying to convince you to change sides, I am merely stating what I had done, and expressing my regrets and apologizing for it.

I truly hope that I can be a better person out of this blunder.
