

Recently our friend Lisa has been lied about and called abusive, crazy, a leech, manipulative and violent by her ex June. While June was, in her words, “bouncing on Jerseymoder’s dick” at the New Orleans meetup, her ex Lisa has left home and her current location is unknown. Before she did she left us a zip file with every interaction her and June ever had. A complete archive of every surviving Discord and SMS conversation in screenshots and text documents, photo, links sent and even call log, 250 files in total. After being dumped, in attempts to communicate with June about what happened and why, she was met with an ever changing story about their time together. She started keeping receipts to keep her name clean and refute anything June says about her. After witnessing how much this effected Lisa’s mental health her friends have decided to use these logs to address the nature of June and Lisa’s relationship based on everything their entire written history together. The purpose of this is not revenge but to defend Lisa whom we believe has been slandered by someone avoiding blame and negative reputation for their coldhearted decision.

On April 29th Lisa added a girl from the /mmg/ thread on 4chan’s /lgbt/ board. This user was June. Despite this girl already expressing a desire to meet up with another user, Jerseymoder, in the same thread, she and Lisa quickly hit it off. The following day a thread was made to ridicule Lisa, we do not know if this was made by anyone involved in this incident. Lisa still decided to trust June, and they continued speaking to each other daily. They told each other the origins of their Trans names (June was not honest about this), introduced each other to their favorite bands and spoke of their dreams for the future.

Lisa expressed a great deal of appreciation towards June for the time they spent together, and the two eventually became a couple. Over the next month they would fall in love, make endless promisses to each other, planned a meet up and even spoke of marriage.

Everything seems too good to be true for Lisa, and little did she know it was. In their final two weeks together Lisa would Notice June growing more distant from her. This is when June and Jerseymoder started hitting it off. Lisa began feel more and more insecure in her relationship and feared June would leave her. On June 8th, that came true.

The previous night June told Lisa she had the entire next day to spend with her. This was great news to Lisa as the growing distance between the two had caused her anxiety to spike. The following morning Lisa sent her usual good morning text to June, and she never responded. Later that day, in /mmg/ Lisa saw a post from an anonymous user saying they loved their partner but felt it was time to break up with them. Lisa immediately thought this was about her, and responded saying she could tell this was coming. The anonymous user replied and continued to break up with Lisa.

Frustrated she demanded the anon message her in private to do this and not in a public thread. After this she posted seeking someone to speak to on Discord so she didn't feel so alone in this moment. One of the users who would respond would be Jerseymoder. This is when the real breakup begins.

Lisa would tell Jerseymoder about using drugs to cope with getting dumped. Shortly after this, June would finally message Lisa. Not via text message where she would have to engage with Lisa's previous messages but on Discord with a clean slate to break up with her. Not saying hello or explaining what happened all day, she instead pressed Lisa on what happened in the thread, as if she had prior knowledge that she was the one messaging the anon. She also mentioned drug use which was never spoken about before Lisa had told Jerseymoder. The deceptive pair had finally found a way to remove Lisa from the picture "guilt free". As the night progressed, Lisa would continue to say she didn't want things to end and beg to know why June wasn't keeping her numerous vows to make things work no matter what. June's only response was to push the blame onto Lisa insisting that she was the one to break up with her. The relationship was officially over. In the following days, Lisa would continue to speak to Jerseymoder. Everything she said would be used against her. June and Jerseymoder are currently meeting each other IRL. They both continue to claim they are not a couple.

so like im sorry, ig i dont need you to like be best pals with me, but I do hope we dont have to be like enemies or something :/ Before you first removed me, I did genuinely care about you and tried to give you the advice I could best to my ability. I just didnt learn that you were the moder that was going out with the other moder I had met a week or two before until she told me like after talking to you (edited) but non the less, I had only become friends with her initially out of the fact she had the same interests as me. I never tried to do some home wrecker shit infact, she has never seen a nude of me.

but like not in a "we are doing shit together but I dont want to be exclusive" type way, but in a "i dont trust 4 chan ppl, and esp one I watch end a relationship and start a new one right away" type way and if it makes you feel any better, ive made it clear to her that we arn't a "thing"

i do think june meeting me tho may have contributed to the way things turned out between you two tho

i dont think i swooped in tho

i understand that

Jerseymoder confirms to Lisa that her fears were correct but continues to deny any romantic involvement with June. Does anyone actually believe She would travel across the country and rent an Air BnB for a week to visit someone they had no interest in? These two have been dating for just as long as Lisa and June were before their planned vacation (and potential wedding). During all of these events Jerseymoder has expressed constant fear that Lisa would travel to NJ and seek revenge on her. Why would she feel that way if there was nothing between her and June?

Joeytwotits 6/19/2026 7:58 PM

Damn, Im sorry thats happening to you

This is why I stay away from edating lol

esp edating 4chaner

esp edating moders
