

WHY WOULD I WANT TO BE NORMAL?

Why would I want to be normal when normal people fight wars? Kill and die for nothing?

Why would I want to be normal when normal people break hearts? Rip them to shreds?

Why would I want to be normal, stale and boring. Working in an office?

Why would I want to be normal, die in a rocking chair?

Why would I want to be normal, a hypocrite who judges others for having fun they already did when they were younger?

Why would I want to be normal, listening to the endless litany of propaganda?

Why would I want to be normal when normal people elected or selected every evil tyrant in history?

Why would I want to be normal, when the standard changes all the time, eventually leaving you behind to be an old has-been?

Why would I want to be normal when it doesn't even exist?

Why would I want to be normal when I can be abnormal and tell society to fuck itself?

Why would I want to be normal when I could be extraordinary?

Why would I want to be normal? To lose my song, my youth, everything fun and good about life?

For every Nikola Tesla there are ten thousand morons

For every great leader there are ten thousand cowards

For every great work of art there are ten thousand pieces of shit

For every excellent advent there are ten thousand failures

Why would I want to be normal?
