

Profile Report

Subject: The Dawnseekers

Date: 20th of August, 314 H.E.

Provided for: The Cloudsley Estate

Authorized By: Head Detective Carson Beagle

Name: Dr. Kudryavka

Alias: None

Gender: Female

Status: Handler of the Dawnseekers

Background: Studied engineering and artificing at the Lacrimosa d'Cortina, which led to a highly confidential career working for the Benavito government.

Notes: Remarkably skilled in artificing, alchemy, sigilcraft, and all manner of science. Quite a recluse, so we've been unable to source a picture, but she supposedly looks quite cat-like. She is possibly attempting to illegally reverse-engineer various powerful armaments for use by the Dawnseekers. Further investigation required.

Name: Hestri

Alias: 'The Bogwitch'

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: A former resident of an unnamed swamp. Her background before residing there is unknown, but some rumors from locals indicate that she may be an estranged child of nobility. Our best leads are on the missing children incidents reported by the Luntarius, Sinclair, and Boullencourt families. Further investigation required.

Notes: Has an impressive knack for potioncraft, alchemy, and poison magic. Socially awkward and mostly harmless.

Name: Unknown

Alias: Major Conquest

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Former leader of the 3rd Company of the Imperial Legion, who vanished after the disaster that was the Third Wizard War. Little else is known about her.

Notes: Extremely strong affinity and proficiency with firearms. Known to be dangerously erratic and irritable when out of combat. Unknown if she is human, due to her incessantly hiding her skin.

Name: Alaryck

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Formerly an instructor's aide at the Academy, he is the survivor of the infamous incident involving the death of Kurt Ohn, second in line of the Ohn family. Presumably of humble origin.

Notes: Known for the cunning and reckless use of his facsimilous hand. His superb academic record proves him to be a rare talent in the theory of spellcraft.

Name: Hurdy Gurdyson

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Unknown

Background: His short stature and pallid complexion indicate that he originates from a family of mine-dwellers.

Notes: Was displaying suicidal tendencies before he disappeared...

Name: Eigengrau

Alias: None

Gender: Unknown

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Totally unknown

Notes: It tends to use very dangerous and volatile spells. One of our rookies swears that he saw a black tentacle under this thing's robes; I highly doubt it, but that's the only info we could gather. Makes me nervous.

Name: Sir Thorne

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Uncertain, but presumably a member of a long lineage of knights errant.

Notes: Shows an exceptional ability in spirit attunement, derived from ancestral memory. Unknown if he's in communication with dark spirits, or even The Old Ones; treat with caution.

Name: Cookie Yukishiro

Alias: None

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown

Notes: Frequently changes outfits, which tend to be scanty. She might be cursed.

Name: Parsley (surname unknown)

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: A former student of the Academy (dropped out), with origins in the town of Scarborough.

Notes: According to our inside sources, he is an infamous figure among the Academy's faculty: He was known for extremely grandiose misinterpretations of class assignments, abhorrent grades, starting heated arguments about pointless games, and signing all of his documents with 'Conceived by the Great Parsley of Scarborough.' As such, his surname is nowhere to be found. Potentially dangerous due to the sheer scale of his narcissistic grandiosity.

Name: Wintry

Alias: None

Gender: Female in appearance, but potentially genderless

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: A natural ice elemental, probably originating from the Frozen Wastes.

Notes: Has a strong affinity for ice magic, but shows an aptitude for alchemical fusions in general. Power level unknown; potentially magically volatile.

Name: Jorogumo? Korokumo?

Alias: Joro? Kumo?

Gender: Female? (probably)

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers?

Background: Hard to say. Our contact in the Capital Library found some reports tracing back centuries ago regarding a 'spidery marchioness' known to meddle in the affairs of courts across the old kingdoms. I doubt it, but there's a slim chance we're dealing with a millenarian here, which makes me shudder to think about.

Notes: For the longest time we thought she was a singular entity, but it turned out to be more like a big colony of spiders (each called Kumo?), with, like, one big mother spider that governs them all (called Joro?). The big one with a face mask tends to vanish, but we've got plenty of reports of her causing trouble in the Dawnseekers' hometown. In my opinion, she and her acolytes are extremely creepy, but (fingers crossed) not an immediate threat to humanity. Known to be extremely deadly to monsters.

Name: Miss Cynthia Lionella Cloudsley

Alias: Miss Snowflake

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: The only daughter of Lady Patricia Cloudsley. Need I say more?

Notes: Is hopefully beginning to regret stooping to join the 'Dawnseekers,' but she shows some surprising resilience, despite her complaining; we'll have to work on that.

Name: Lansa Ireqqen

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Originates from the Far East, as shown by the Ireqqen clan markings on his headwear. Probably participated in the War of Azmaghreb.

Notes: Has a strong affinity for fire, which is congruous with his culture of origin. A highly experienced and potentially dangerous mercenary.

Name: Ur-Glarbath

Alias: Boss

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown for certain. We speculate that he originates from the East, given his bizarre headwear that seems to be a kind of slow-cooking device.

Notes: Is reportedly amassing a group of 'minions' from among the members of the Dawnseekers. Potentially a spy seeking to gather support and form an inner cell; investigate with caution.

Name: Roanor Lodeheart

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Unknown

Background: Another talented graduate of the academy, he is the second-in-line to inherit the Lodeheart Consortium, a major mining company.

Notes: Potentially has a romantic interest in Miss Cynthia, which would be useful, if his whereabouts weren't currently unknown. Presumably his disappearance is connected to the Lodeheart family, which is also under investigation by us for underhanded dealings. High-priority target.

Name: Rosalia

Alias: None

Gender: Female

Status: Unknown

Background: Unknown

Notes: A brief member of the Dawnseekers, she seems to have been a vampire. Was impersonated by Kumo at one point, which was very confusing. Low-priority target.

Name: Triage

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Unknown

Background: Unknown; probably just a local doctor.

Notes: Unremarkable.

Name: Roa (surname unknown)

Alias: Undying Roa

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: One of the very few survivors of the Battle of Banehold, she was a knight commander that served under House Bright, and had since taken to penitent wandering.

Notes: Well-liked among members of the Dawnseekers. Has a strong affinity for light-based magic, but occasionally dabbles in other forms.

Name: Simon Floche

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown; possibly a battle mage from a foreign land that has fallen on hard times.

Notes: Tends to utilize heavy firearms in conjunction with fire magic, to devastating effect. Weilds his tools with a remarkable artistry.

Name: Friedrich Von Morgenreich

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Unknown

Background: Unknown

Notes: A short fella that we heard was hovering around Dawnstone one time. Seemed to be a bard? Couldn't get a good look at him; probably not important.

Name: Ophelia Sterncor

Alias: None

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown

Notes: Seems innocent on the surface, but our sensors detect dark magical forces hovering around her. We strongly suspect that a malignant spirit is influencing her actions. Treat with utmost caution.

Name: Warpig

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Probably wandered in from some backwater woods somewhere.

Notes: Barely civilized enough to function within the Dawnseekers. Extremely dangerous. Who gave this guy armor?

Name: Sera (surname unknown)

Alias: Spellknight Sera

Gender: Female

Status: Unknown

Background: Possibly a member of a holy knighthood.

Notes: Was only a Dawnseeker for a short time, so not much is known about her. In my opinion, she seems deeply sadistic.

Name: Unknown

Alias: Slabgrin

Gender: Male

Status: Unknown

Background: Totally unknown

Notes: Wears an obviously fake beard. Extremely suspicious, and baffling to everyone in the agency. Our best guess is that he's another private investigator, from one of our incompetent rivals, but for whom exactly, we can say.

Name: Aliciel (surname unknown)

Alias: None

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: From the pattern on her cloak, she possibly originates from the Northern Wastes; possible connection to Wintry

Notes: Known to be skittish and difficult to track. Incredibly animated when she's nervous.

Name: Countess Susanne II

Alias: None

Gender: Female (probably; we should consult a herpetologist)

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: None of us have the foggiest idea of what kind of creature she is, but she's definitely from nowhere around here. Supposedly she comes from a long line of magic-weilders; how that makes her a countess, we're not sure.

Notes: Shows a strong affinity for lightning magic, especially when used for personal inventions. Potentially dangerous.

Name: Sir Willis IV

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Claims to be a knight sent by a local queen, which is odd, considering that the aristocracy was abolished over a century ago.

Notes: Either a madman that escaped from an asylum, an exceptionally capable cosplayer, or time has begun to collapse upon itself and spit out relics from the past.

Name: Aki (surname unknown)

Alias: None

Gender: Female

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown

Notes: Friend of Cookie Yukishiro. Seems like she was just a temporary substitute. Incredible that she can wield a sword as big as she does, honestly.

Name: Havian Alchoric

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown

Notes: Known to be accompanied by a small blocky golem. Further investigation required.

Name: Garrett Finlay

Alias: None

Gender: Male

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Unknown

Notes: An elderly gentleman, perhaps some kind of world traveler. Further investigation required.

Name: Favillae

Alias: None

Gender: None

Status: Employed by the Dawnseekers

Background: Totally unknown

Notes: Is a golem animated by elemental fire, known to be accompanied by another golem made of wax. CAUTION: All signs point to this being a fully-sentient artificial fire golem, which is, according to our sources, a technological impossibility. If info about this golem's existence leaks, the mayhem in the Department of Magical Regulation would only be rivaled by the mayhem in the Academy's High Society of Philosophy and Ethics. Further investigation is one of our top priorities.